ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce Lee R. Penn as a candidate for Magistrate from Clintonville precinct, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, November 15.

REPUBLICAN Headquarters at the Galt House is full of silence, sorrow and campaign literature. The chairman sits with bowed head waiting for visitors, and the lonely stenographer nods in the corner, a picture of idleness and grief. There is nothing doing. At Democratic Headquarters at Seelbachs all life and action. Twenty young women are engaged in sending instructions to the perfect organizations built up by Judge Hager and Secretary Haly. Fully 5,000 letters a day are mailed to voters. The Speakers' Bureau is peopling the State with orators. Every member of the Campaign Committee is up to his eyes in work. There is the unmistakable air of victory about Headquarters, and comparison between the funeral Republican rooms at the Galt House is most striking.

Gus Wilson is touring the State for the Republicans. Gus is a nice, clean fellow and a plausible talker, but he lacks courage. The amount of kicks and cuffs he has stood from his party would have driven a brave man to fight or suicide. He seems to like it, however. Every time he offers for a nomination he is booted out into the street, until he has been kicked so full of holes that he can hardly hold his breath. He must like it because he keeps coming back for more. Every fresh kick seems to incite Gus to fervid bursts of oratory. He is so accustomed to these leatheren jars that he can not begin his speech until some strong fellow rushes up behind him and hands him a swift kick.

"YOUNG" DAVIS is a happy appellation for the Democratic nominee for Vice President. He is standing the rigors of a strenuous campaign without a strain, giving those of his party thirty years his junior all they can do to keep pace with him. A temperate, correct life has given him a constitution of iron. With perfect physical health he has a brain equipment that makes him master over enterprises of great moment, his executive ability being one of his strongest characteristics. The country would be fortunate indeed to have so sane and sound a man as presiding officer of the Senate.

THE $687,000,000 already spent in the "benevolent assimilation" of the Philippines would if expended in irrigation make every arid acre of land in the West blossom with the plenty of a blue-grass farm. But that would not make us a "World Power," or feed Roosevelt's insatiable ambition to have an imperial and naval equipment to excite the envy and enmity of all Europe.

EVERY effort made by the Republicans to organize the Gold Democrats in Kentucky against Parker and Davis has failed. With the exception of a handful of office-holders and office-seekers, not a dozen in all by actual count, the gold men are back in line. They are tired of Taylorism and Rooseveltism.
